

HARVARD CLUB TO GIVE ANNUAL DINNER DEC. 20

President of University Will Be Among Distinguished Guests Present.

The most important gathering of Harvard men ever held in Washington will take place Thursday evening, December 20, when the annual dinner of the Washington Harvard Club will be held at Rauscher's.

President A. Lawrence Lowell, president of the Harvard University, will attend, as will other distinguished graduates.

At the dinner this year it is expected that there will be a general reunion of the numerous Harvard graduates engaged in war service of every kind in the Capital. A list of the committees follows:

Social committee—Walter R. Tucker, '02, chairman; Pickering Dodge, '19, treasurer; Percival Hall, '22; John W. Prentiss, '18, and Martin T. Fisher, '12.

Dinner committee—Henry Cabot Lodge, '11, United States Senate; Maj. Eugene Wambaugh, '76, Judge Advocate General's office; E. W. Tansley, '73, Tariff Commission; Charles S. Hamlin, '81, Federal Reserve Board; Frederick A. Delano, '85, Federal Reserve Board; Samuel E. Winslow, '85, House of Representatives; Logan Warner, '86, Department of Agriculture; Col. Van Daman, '88, General Staff; Charles Warren, '88, Assistant Attorney General; Nicholas Longworth, '91, House of Representatives; Elliott H. Goodwin, '92, Chamber of Commerce; Capt. Robert D. Wrenn, '92, Signal Corps; Clarence R. Wilson, '96, Food Commission; Eliot Wadsworth, '98, Red Cross; John L. Saltonstall, '98, War Trade Board; William Phillips, '00, Assistant Secretary of State; Frederic A. Eustis, '01, shipping; Peter Goelet Gerry, '01, Senate; Lieut. Ellis Postelwaite, '01, Ordnance Bureau; Lieut. Harold B. Clark, '01, Ordnance Bureau; John W. Hallowell, '01, Food Commission; Lieut. Col. Richard H. Williams, '02, Quartermaster General's office; Dr. Draper, '05, Medical Corps; Herbert N. Straus, '05, Food Commission; Franklin D. Roosevelt, '06, Assistant Secretary of Navy; Preston Davis, '06, Council of Defense; John Jacob Rogers, '04, House of Representatives; Lathrop Brown, '04, Priority Board; William M. Elkins, '05, Naval Intelligence; Louis duPont Irving, '07, War Trade Board; Lieut. Col. John A. Stedman, '11, Department of Justice; Maj. Stedman S. Hanks, '12, Signal Corps.

prominent American author and society man of this city, who has been serving with the Norton-Harjes unit since the early days of the war, has been decorated by the French government with the Croix de Guerre, the cross of war, with two star citations for gallant conduct on the field, word has just reached this country.

Gibson is now chief of a section of the United States Army Ambulance Corps, since the Norton-Harjes unit has been taken over by General Pershing's forces.

Some of the local boards will meet, probably at the Municipal building, some at the old Central High School building, one at the Western High School building and one at the City Postoffice. Some may meet at other points.

During the entire time when the boards are in session, lawyers will be in attendance ready and prepared to advise registrants in the preparation of their questionnaires.

Every evening, on and after December 18, except Sundays and holidays, lawyers will be at every police station in the District between 8 and 10 o'clock. They will advise registrants at those times.

In each department of the government, lawyers have been appointed members of the Legal Advisory board.

The attorneys in the Department of Justice have volunteered in large numbers for the work. If any other departments need assistance lawyers from that department will be prepared to furnish it.

Any registrant who is unable to go to one of the centers above mentioned may feel free to go into any law office in Washington, and there will freely receive the same attention and consideration which the lawyer would give to any client.

The lawyers cannot forecast the decision of the local or district boards upon individual cases. This can only be done after the registrant has carefully studied the questionnaire and has prepared himself with the facts necessary to answer it.

Location of Lawyers.
General rooms of the Legal Advisory Board will be opened in Room 818, District Building, Headquarters of the lawyers who will give particular attention to each division will be located as follows:

Registration Division No. 1, Room 214, District Building; Registration Division No. 2, Old Central High School, Seventh and O streets northwest; Registration Division No. 3, City Postoffice, North Capital street and Massachusetts avenue; Registration Division No. 4, Room 406, District Building; Registration Division No. 5, Room 428, District Building; Registration Division No. 6, Room 427, District Building; Registration Division No. 7, Western High School Building, Thirty-fifth and T streets northwest; Registration Division No. 8, Old Central High School Building, Seventh and O streets northwest; Registration Division No. 9, Room 112, District Building; Registration Division No. 10, No. 10 Police Station; Registration Division No. 11, Old Central High School, Seventh and O streets northwest.

MARSHALL TO SPEAK
AT GEORGETOWN "U"

Service Flag with 769 Stars to Be
Raised at Institution.

Vice President Thomas R. Marshall will be chief speaker this afternoon at patriotic exercises in Gaston Hall, Georgetown University, where a service flag—the largest yet raised by a college since America went to war—containing 769 stars, will be blessed by the president of the university, the Rev. Alphonsus J. Donlon, S. J. The exercises will begin at 3:45 o'clock. Guests will include Chief Justice White and Commissioner Gardner, both graduates of the university; Brig. Gen. Frank McIntyre and Senators Harding and Pomerene, of Ohio, and Randall, of Louisiana.

Father Donlon will offer a prayer for Georgetown students in military service.

Headed by the university's two military companies the student body will march from the quadrangle to Gaston Hall. Music will be furnished by the Georgetown Orchestra and the Glee Club will sing.

Bonde de Tallon, of New York, an alumnus, will read an original poem, written by an undergraduate student, Charles Angelus, another New York alumnus, will speak. Admission will be by card.

The service flag was made by girl students in Georgetown Visitation convent. Four Georgetown students have met death on the battlefield since the war started and a fifth was last week honored by the French government by being presented with the Cross of Honor for bravery under fire. He is Henry B. Warren, Waukegan, Ill., a graduate of the law class of 1912.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

Prominent American Author Decorated by French for Bravery

PRESTON GIBSON of this city, who has been serving with the Norton-Harjes unit since the early days of the war, has been decorated by the French government with the Croix de Guerre, the cross of war, with two star citations for gallant conduct on the field, word has just reached this country.

Gibson is now chief of a section of the United States Army Ambulance Corps, since the Norton-Harjes unit has been taken over by General Pershing's forces.

Some of the local boards will meet, probably at the Municipal building, some at the old Central High School building, one at the Western High School building and one at the City Postoffice. Some may meet at other points.

During the entire time when the boards are in session, lawyers will be in attendance ready and prepared to advise registrants in the preparation of their questionnaires.

Every evening, on and after December 18, except Sundays and holidays, lawyers will be at every police station in the District between 8 and 10 o'clock. They will advise registrants at those times.

In each department of the government, lawyers have been appointed members of the Legal Advisory board.

The attorneys in the Department of Justice have volunteered in large numbers for the work. If any other departments need assistance lawyers from that department will be prepared to furnish it.

Any registrant who is unable to go to one of the centers above mentioned may feel free to go into any law office in Washington, and there will freely receive the same attention and consideration which the lawyer would give to any client.

The lawyers cannot forecast the decision of the local or district boards upon individual cases. This can only be done after the registrant has carefully studied the questionnaire and has prepared himself with the facts necessary to answer it.

Location of Lawyers.
General rooms of the Legal Advisory Board will be opened in Room 818, District Building, Headquarters of the lawyers who will give particular attention to each division will be located as follows:

Registration Division No. 1, Room 214, District Building; Registration Division No. 2, Old Central High School, Seventh and O streets northwest; Registration Division No. 3, City Postoffice, North Capital street and Massachusetts avenue; Registration Division No. 4, Room 406, District Building; Registration Division No. 5, Room 428, District Building; Registration Division No. 6, Room 427, District Building; Registration Division No. 7, Western High School Building, Thirty-fifth and T streets northwest; Registration Division No. 8, Old Central High School Building, Seventh and O streets northwest; Registration Division No. 9, Room 112, District Building; Registration Division No. 10, No. 10 Police Station; Registration Division No. 11, Old Central High School, Seventh and O streets northwest.

MARSHALL TO SPEAK
AT GEORGETOWN "U"

Service Flag with 769 Stars to Be
Raised at Institution.

Vice President Thomas R. Marshall will be chief speaker this afternoon at patriotic exercises in Gaston Hall, Georgetown University, where a service flag—the largest yet raised by a college since America went to war—containing 769 stars, will be blessed by the president of the university, the Rev. Alphonsus J. Donlon, S. J. The exercises will begin at 3:45 o'clock. Guests will include Chief Justice White and Commissioner Gardner, both graduates of the university; Brig. Gen. Frank McIntyre and Senators Harding and Pomerene, of Ohio, and Randall, of Louisiana.

Father Donlon will offer a prayer for Georgetown students in military service.

Headed by the university's two military companies the student body will march from the quadrangle to Gaston Hall. Music will be furnished by the Georgetown Orchestra and the Glee Club will sing.

Bonde de Tallon, of New York, an alumnus, will read an original poem, written by an undergraduate student, Charles Angelus, another New York alumnus, will speak. Admission will be by card.

The service flag was made by girl students in Georgetown Visitation convent. Four Georgetown students have met death on the battlefield since the war started and a fifth was last week honored by the French government by being presented with the Cross of Honor for bravery under fire. He is Henry B. Warren, Waukegan, Ill., a graduate of the law class of 1912.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

LAWYERS READY TO GIVE ADVICE TO REGISTRANTS

The District Bar Mobilizes
Service in New Draft
Classification.

Practically the entire legal talent of the city has arrayed itself for the benefit of local registrants in the preparation of the questionnaires which must be given exhaustive attention beginning December 18. Three hundred or more local lawyers are already enrolled in the Legal Advisory Board which has taken the initiative in this good movement.

It is the belief of these men that it is their supreme duty and of the greatest importance to the country that they give their technical advice on this subject and each one of them stands ready to devote his free time to advising the registrants free of charge.

There are more than 22,000 registrants in the District of Columbia. All registrants not yet in the military service must fill out the questionnaire and obtain a new classification. All exemptions heretofore allowed expire December 15. On that day questionnaires will be mailed to 1,000 of the registrants, and 1,000 on each business day thereafter until all are out. All questionnaires and supporting affidavits must be filed with the proper local board within seven days after they are mailed—not after they are received.

Places of Meeting.
Some of the local boards will meet, probably at the Municipal building, some at the old Central High School building, one at the Western High School building and one at the City Postoffice. Some may meet at other points.

During the entire time when the boards are in session, lawyers will be in attendance ready and prepared to advise registrants in the preparation of their questionnaires.

Every evening, on and after December 18, except Sundays and holidays, lawyers will be at every police station in the District between 8 and 10 o'clock. They will advise registrants at those times.

In each department of the government, lawyers have been appointed members of the Legal Advisory board.

The attorneys in the Department of Justice have volunteered in large numbers for the work. If any other departments need assistance lawyers from that department will be prepared to furnish it.

Any registrant who is unable to go to one of the centers above mentioned may feel free to go into any law office in Washington, and there will freely receive the same attention and consideration which the lawyer would give to any client.

The lawyers cannot forecast the decision of the local or district boards upon individual cases. This can only be done after the registrant has carefully studied the questionnaire and has prepared himself with the facts necessary to answer it.

Location of Lawyers.
General rooms of the Legal Advisory Board will be opened in Room 818, District Building, Headquarters of the lawyers who will give particular attention to each division will be located as follows:

Registration Division No. 1, Room 214, District Building; Registration Division No. 2, Old Central High School, Seventh and O streets northwest; Registration Division No. 3, City Postoffice, North Capital street and Massachusetts avenue; Registration Division No. 4, Room 406, District Building; Registration Division No. 5, Room 428, District Building; Registration Division No. 6, Room 427, District Building; Registration Division No. 7, Western High School Building, Thirty-fifth and T streets northwest; Registration Division No. 8, Old Central High School Building, Seventh and O streets northwest; Registration Division No. 9, Room 112, District Building; Registration Division No. 10, No. 10 Police Station; Registration Division No. 11, Old Central High School, Seventh and O streets northwest.

MARSHALL TO SPEAK
AT GEORGETOWN "U"

Service Flag with 769 Stars to Be
Raised at Institution.

Vice President Thomas R. Marshall will be chief speaker this afternoon at patriotic exercises in Gaston Hall, Georgetown University, where a service flag—the largest yet raised by a college since America went to war—containing 769 stars, will be blessed by the president of the university, the Rev. Alphonsus J. Donlon, S. J. The exercises will begin at 3:45 o'clock. Guests will include Chief Justice White and Commissioner Gardner, both graduates of the university; Brig. Gen. Frank McIntyre and Senators Harding and Pomerene, of Ohio, and Randall, of Louisiana.

Father Donlon will offer a prayer for Georgetown students in military service.

Headed by the university's two military companies the student body will march from the quadrangle to Gaston Hall. Music will be furnished by the Georgetown Orchestra and the Glee Club will sing.

Bonde de Tallon, of New York, an alumnus, will read an original poem, written by an undergraduate student, Charles Angelus, another New York alumnus, will speak. Admission will be by card.

The service flag was made by girl students in Georgetown Visitation convent. Four Georgetown students have met death on the battlefield since the war started and a fifth was last week honored by the French government by being presented with the Cross of Honor for bravery under fire. He is Henry B. Warren, Waukegan, Ill., a graduate of the law class of 1912.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

Seventh and Eye Streets

Shop Early
for Xmas.

Pay Cash or Charge It.

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Seventh and
Eye Streets

Superior Designing and Quality

—The kind that is away out in front of all others—is the motto of Pollock. Signs of winter are in the air, and those of us who are wise will purchase a warm overcoat or suit immediately. Try Pollock this year and you will receive real clothes satisfaction that cannot be found elsewhere.

Suits & Overcoats

Tailored to Measure $22.50 Worth Much More

S. H. POLLOCK & CO.

(INC.)
901-3 G Street N. W.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of salary does not affect Representative Fuller, since he turns his own back to the government and serves gratuitously, as he did when holding a seat in the Bay State House of Representatives.

COLLEAGUE REBUKES
TAX-DODGING SOLON

Representative Fuller Proposes to
Abolish Immunity Clause.

"No Congressman who votes war taxes upon the people and then takes upon himself immunity therefrom is fit to sit in a hog caucus at the stockyards and be thought to be driven from public life at once," says Representative Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, in explanation of his bill providing that members' salaries shall be subject to the war tax exactly the same as incomes of other individuals.

The immunity clause favoring members of Congress came into the war tax measure after the bill had passed both House and Senate and was sent to the conference committee. There the favoritism section was added, and as the acceptance of a conference report is a routine matter, the majority of the members voted for the bill ignorant of the fact that they were giving themselves much the best of it.

The matter of